

Carleton Optical Equipment Limited Modern Slavery Statement

Introduction

Carleton Optical Equipment Limited is opposed to all forms of unethical business behaviour, and we take a zero-tolerance approach to any form of modern slavery and human trafficking. We wholly endorse section 54 of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 in preventing any form of slavery occurring within our supply chain.

Company Overview

Carleton Optical Equipment Limited is a Sales and Distribution entity trading within the UK. We have proudly represented many well-respected Suppliers from across Europe, the USA and Japan, whose names are synonymous with quality and good practice, for almost 40 years.

We pride ourselves on our continued ISO accreditation and annual health and safety audit conducted by an external partner, to ensure we remain legal and compliant and provide a safe, healthy and welcoming workplace for both our employees and visiting guests alike.

Supply Chain

Carleton Optical Equipment Limited is committed to continually working closely with its supply chain and ensure our partners share our legal and ethical policies and do not engage in any form of modern slavery or human trafficking. Any concerns or suspicions would be raised with Senior Management and a full investigation would ensue.

Through working closely with our trusted suppliers, we define clear expectation and assess compliance according to identified risks. Through mutual benefit, we engage in product training and actively encourage continuous improvement

We are wholly committed to ensuring transparency throughout our organisation and in our approach to tackling modern slavery throughout our supply chain.

Nick Fitrzyk
Managing Director